EXHIBIT A

In the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. Potomac Electric Power Co., plaintiff, v. Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia et al., defendants, in Equity No. 35336, and Potomac Electric Power Co., plaintiff, v. Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia et al., defendants, in Equity No. 35341.

DECREE

The cause first above mentioned was heretofore fully argued by counsel and submitted on the 13th day of February, 1924, and was maturely considered by the court upon said argument and briefs thereafter furnished, until the 20th day of December, 1924, on which date counsel announced that the parties themselves were able to reach an agreement not only settling all matters in controversy in said suit first mentioned, but in the second suit also, bringing the valuation of the plaintiff's property down to the present time, and also establishing a sliding scale as a basis upon which rates should be made in the future. On consideration whereof and upon motion, it is ordered this 31st day of December, 1924, that these two causes be consolidated and hereafter heard together, and they were so heard this day, and it appearing to the court that the agreement above mentioned between the parties fixes the valuation of the property of the plaintiff used and useful in electric operations as of the 1st day of January, 1925, but not including any of the property excluded by the commission from its valuation as not used or useful in electric operation, at a figure deemed fair and just by the parties and approved by the court, and therefore avoids the necessity of a specific finding by this court as to the fair value of said property as of December 31, 1916, which agreement is as follows:

1. The commission to determine fair value of property now used and useful as of January 1, 1925, of $32,500,000, including Maryland property.

2. On the depreciation reserve as of December 31, 1924, approximately $4,000,000, interest will be accrued on a 4 per cent basis and as an accretion to the reserve, lessening the amount of depreciation to be included as an expense of operation. Depreciation is to be based upon a modified straight line basis described in the method below.

When the depreciation reserve is below 15 per cent of the value of property indicated above, plus additions, the following rate applies: 2.3 per cent of said value.

When the depreciation reserve is 15 per cent of the said value but less than 16 per cent of said value the following rate applies: 2.1 per cent of said value.

When the depreciation reserve is 16 per cent of the said value but less than 17 per cent of said value the following rate applies: 1.9 per cent of said value.

When the depreciation reserve is 17 per cent of the said value but less than 18 per cent of said value the following rate applies: 1.7 per cent of said value.

When the depreciation reserve is 18 per cent of the said value but less than 19 per cent of said value the following rate applies: 1.5 per cent of said value.

When the depreciation reserve is 19 per cent of the said value but less than 20 per cent of said value the following rate applies: 1.3 per cent of said value.

Thereafter the accretions to the depreciation reserve shall be such as not to make the total of said reserve in excess of 20 per cent of the value of property as stated above plus additions.

3. Rates for 1925 to be based upon a return of $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent on the above-named value, namely, \$32,500,000, plus estimated cost of additions undepreciated and weighted, and shall be as shown on Schedule A hereto annexed.

4. If the rates hereafter yield more than a $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent return on \$32,500,000, plus actual cost of future additions undepreciated but weighted during a period of any one year, one-half of said excess shall be used in a reduction of rates to be charged the public for electric service thereafter, thereby providing a sliding scale of rates under provisions of paragraph 18 of the act creating the Public Utilities Commission, advantageous to the public and company alike, that is to say, by way of example, if the return for any one year should amount to \$100,000 over and above $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent on the base ascertained as aforesaid, then the rates for the succeeding year to be charged the public shall be automatically reduced by the filing of new rate schedules to absorb \$50,000 of such excess during such year.

5. If the average return for any consecutive 5-year period falls below $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent on the base ascertained as aforesaid, or if the average return for any consecutive 3-year period falls below 7 per cent on the base ascertained as aforesaid, or if the average return for any consecutive 12-month period falls below $6\frac{1}{2}$ per cent on the base ascertained as aforesaid, the commission shall promptly increase rates so as to yield $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent on the base ascertained as aforesaid.

6. The impounded fund, with interest to December 31, 1924, less District of Columbia franchise and Federal income taxes, is to be divided equally between consumers and the company, interest on that portion of the impounded fund which reverts to consumers to cease on December 31, 1924. Any income after January 1, 1925, on that portion of the impounded fund to be refunded to consumers shall be applied toward the cost of distribution of amounts due them.

7. The company to make refunds as promptly as possible or as the order of the court may direct.

8. Any amounts due to consumers which may be unclaimed at the end of a period to be prescribed by the court shall be considered as income of the company and prorated over a term of 20 years.

And it further appearing to the court upon consideration of the record of the above causes and the decision of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia made in the first case that order No. 208 of the commission fixing the valuation of the plaintiff's property should be modified and the valuation increased, and that in view thereof order No. 223 of said commission based on said order No. 208, with the modifications thereof approved by this court, should be modified and adjusted and that the agreement between the parties hereto disposes of these matters, and upon consideration of the agreement between the parties hereto and the basis of the division of the fund impounded, the basis of which division the parties to this suit have agreed upon, as aforesaid, that the said division evidenced by said agreement is fair and reasonable and is to the interest of the rate payers during that period, and that all of the other provisions of said agreement are fair and reasonable, and made with the approval of the court in so far as the same are within the jurisdiction of this court in these cases, it is further adjudged, ordered, and decreed as follows:

First. That the fund impounded by the plaintiff company under the injunction order in this cause, and representing the difference between the rates actually collected and those which were prescribed by order No. 223, and the several modifications thereof made pending the appeal therefrom, with interest thereon to December 31, 1924, amounts to $6,388,445.54 as of that date; that from this sum there shall be deducted the franchise taxes to the District of Columbia and the Federal income taxes to the amount of $500,000, which will accrue on that portion thereof which is to be retained by the company under this decree; that after making such deduction for taxes, the court ascertains the residue of said fund with interest thereon to December 31, 1924, to be $5,888,445.54 as of December 31, 1924; that 50 per cent of said fund remaining after said deductions shall be retained by the plaintiff and the residue thereof divided by it pro rata among, and paid to, the various rate payers within the District of Columbia who contributed thereto through the rates paid by them between August 1, 1917, and December 31, 1924, in the proportion in which they contributed thereto; that interest on that portion of said fund payable to the several rate payers within the said District hereunder shall be computed according to a method to be approved by the said commission but shall cease on December 31, 1924, and all interest which otherwise would accrue thereon after that date to the company shall be applied by it toward paying the cost and expenses incident to the distribution of said fund among those entitled as herein provided; that the plaintiff shall make the refunds hereby required as promptly as may be consistent with accuracy and justice, or as the court may hereafter direct, if necessity therefor should arise; that the plaintiff company is directed to establish and publish within 30 days from this date, and to enforce, reasonable rules and regulations with which consumers shall be required to comply, to the end that the company shall be furnished as promptly and as economically as is consistent with accuracy and justice, sufficient proof of the identity of, as well as the authority to collect of all claimants, the justness of their claims and the amounts paid by them in rates through the period above mentioned, provided that the plaintiff shall commence distributing this fund to the said rate payers within the District of Columbia within six months from this date, unless the court for cause shown shall hereafter extend such time, and all claims not properly presented and authenticated within three years from the promulgation of the rules aforesaid shall be barred, and any amounts then remaining due rate payers who have failed to present and prove their claims within said period, and barred as aforesaid, shall thereafter be considered and accounted for by the plaintiff as income from operations, but to be prorated in accordance with agreement between the parties hereto, and hereinbefore recited.

Second. That on or before the 2d day of January, 1925, the plaintiff herein shall file new schedules and rates to be charged the public for electric service furnished within the District of Columbia, in accordance with schedule herewith attached, marked "Exhibit A," forming a part of this decree, which rates shall continue to be the lawful rates for electric service within the District of Columbia to be charged by the plaintiff until modified or set aside by future orders of the commission, pursuant to law and in accordance with the agreement hereinbefore recited.

Third. These causes are ordered to be retained upon the docket of this court for such further orders as from time to time may be necessary and proper on the footing of this decree.

By the court.
